OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

The Great Yukon District and Adjacent Northern Portion of British Columbia.

An Interesting Report by Dr. Dawson, Who Had Charge of the Yukon Expedition

[From our own Correspondent.]

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—The report now current, although there is little probability of it being carried out, that the Department of the Interior intends sending anew their expedition to the Yukon district, is an opportune time to give some particulars of the former expedition, and which are to be found in an interesting work recently published by Dr. G. M. Dawson, who was in charge of that expedition. The report deals with a portion of the Yukon district, N. W. T., and adjacent northern territory of British Columbia. The expedition was undertaken with a view of gaining information on the vast and hitherto unknown tract of country, which forms the extreme northwesterly portion of the Northwest Territory, known as the Yukon District. The name is rendered appropriate from the fact that the greater part of the area lies within the drainage basin of the river of that name. This district has an area of approximately 192,000 square miles, of which, according to the latest information, 150,768 square miles is included in the watershed of the Yukon. Some idea of the extent of the district will be better realized when it is said that it is nearly equal to that of France, greater than the United Kingdom by 71,100 square miles, ten times the area of the Province of Nova Scotia, or nearly three times that of the New England States.

REASONS FOR THE EXPEDITION.

The immediate necessity for the exploratory surveying work undertaken by the expedition, arose from the fact of somewhat important developments of placer gold mining had been attracting a yearly increasing number of miners and prospectors into the country in question, and the work decided on included the preliminary determination of the point at which the Yukon or Pelly river crosses the 141st meridian, which forms the boundary between the Canadian and Alaska Territory and Alaska. One of the expeditions was Mr. Ogilvie, D. L. S., who for many months was not heard from, and who but a few weeks ago returned from his mission. Messrs. R. G. McConnell, B. A., and I. McEvoy, B. A., were assistants to Dr. Dawson.

SUMMARY OF PROCEEDINGS.

The expedition left Ottawa on the 22nd of April, 1887, for Victoria, B. C. Owing to the irregularity of the Alaskan steamers, it was the 18th of May before the expedition reached the Stikine river, where the work commenced. On June 5th the head of Dease Lake was reached. Frances Lake was reached on the 8th of July. On the 29th of July, after much difficulty in portaging a distance of 70 miles, the banks of the Pelly was reached, with still 400 miles of a journey ahead to reach the coast and the swift waters of the Lewes to contend against. The coast at the head of Lynn canal was reached on the 20th of September.

GENERAL FEATURES.

The region traversed by the routes just mentioned, including the extreme northern part of British Columbia and the southern part of the Yukon district, is divided by three great river systems, its waters reaching the Pacific by the Stikine, the Mackenzie, (and eventually the Arctic Ocean,) by the Liard, and Behring Sea, by the Yukon. The south eastern part of the region is divided between the two first named rivers, whose tributary streams interlock, the Stikine making its way completely through the Coast Ranges in a south-westerly direction, while the Liard, on a north easterly bearing, cuts across the Rocky Mountains to the Mackenzie valley. The watershed separating these rivers near Dease Lake has a height of 2730 feet, and both streams may be generally characterized as very rapid. To the north-westward, branches of the Stikine and Liard again interlock with the head waters of several tributaries of the Yukon, which here unite the entire great area enclosed on one side by the Coast Ranges, on the other by the Rocky Mountains. As the general direction of this line of watershed is transverse to that of the main orographic ridges of the country, it will probably be found, when traced in detail, to be very sinuous. The actual watershed between the Liard and Pelly, on our line of route, was found to have an elevation of 3150 feet, but it is, no doubt, much lower in the central portion of the region between the Rocky Mountains and Coast Ranges. To the north of the Stikine, at least one other river, the Taku, cuts like it completely across the Coast Ranges, but its basin is comparatively restricted and little is yet known of it.

It will be noticed, that while the several branches of the Yukon conform in a general way to the main orographic axes, the Stikine and Liard appear to be to a large degree independent of these, and to flow counter to the direction of these ranges. The region as a whole, being a portion of the Cordillera belt of the west coast, is naturally mountainous in general character, but it comprises as well important areas of merely hilly or gently country, besides many wide, flat-bottomed river valleys. It is, moreover, more mountainous and higher in its south eastern part—that drained by the Stikine and Liard—and subsides gradually, and apparently uniformly, to the north-westward, the mountains at the same time becoming more isolated and being separated by broader tracts of low land. The general base-level, or height of the main valleys, within the Coast Ranges, thus declines from about 2,500 feet, to nearly 1,500 feet at the confluence of the Lewes and Pelly rivers, and the average base-level of the entire region may be stated as being a little over 2,000 feet.

Disregarding minor irregularities it is found that the trend of the river scarcely anything is known of the character of the country drained by the MacMillan, Stewart and White rivers.

TOPOGRAPHICAL FEATURES.

The topographical features of the entire region have been considerably modified by the events of the glacial periods, and the changes produced at that time have more particularly affected the drainage basins and the courses of the various streams. The valleys and lower tracts of country are now more or less completely filled or covered by extensive deposits of bonider-clay, gravel, sand and silt laid down during that period. To these deposits are due the flat floors of the larger valleys, and also to a great extent the appearance which the more irregular mountain regions present of being partly submerged in level or rolling plains. Many changes in direction of flow in river valleys have doubtless also been produced during this period, though most of these yet remain to be worked out. The general result has been to produce systems of "inconsequent" drainage wherever the natural slopes of the country are easy and the limiting ranges irregular. Most of the rivers at the present day have done little more than cut out new channels in the glacial debris, touching only here and there upon the subjacent rocky floor.

NAVIGABLE WATERS.

The numerous large and important rivers by which the Yukon district and northern portion of British Columbia is intersected render travel in summer time comparatively easy. For a distance of 133 miles the Stikine is navigable by stern wheel steamers. The Dease river can scarcely be called navigable for steamers. The upper Liard and Frances rivers, above the mouth of the Dease are also passable for large boats, with occasional portages, but not so for steamers. Communication may easily be established by railway from the mouth of the Stikine to the center of Cassiar district and beyond, when this shall be called for, and the district might also be connected by rail with the southern portion of British Columbia, without difficulty. Little is known of the Taku river but Indians ascend it in canoes to within 80 miles of its head. It may be stated that the Yukon is continuously navigable for small steamers from its mouth on Behring Sea and following the Lewes branch, to Miles Canon. Thence, after an interruption of about three miles, to the head of Bennett Lake and to an additional considerable—though not precisely determined distance—by the waters extending south-eastward from Tagish Lake. The Teslin-too is probably navigable for stern-wheel steamers for one hundred and fifty miles or more from its mouth, while the Tehk-heena and Big Salmon rivers may probably both be conceded by steamers of the same class for some distance. From the site of old Fort Selkirk, again, the Pelly might be navigated by small steamers of good power to within about fifty miles of the site of old Fort Pelly Banks, and the Macmillan branch is also navigable for a considerable, though not ascertained distance. The same may be said of the Stewart River, but White River is, so far as known, very swift and shoal. The total length of the waters which may be utilized for navigation by light stern-wheel steamers on the main river and its branches to the east of the 141st meridian or Alaskan boundary, measured in straight lengths of fifty miles, is therefore at least 1000 miles, and following the sinuosities of the various streams would be very much greater. This does not include the Porcupine River, and with the exception of the single break above referred to on the Lewes, forms a connected system, all parts of which lie to the east of the above meridian. If the upper portion of these rivers, above the first obstacles to much navigation, were included, the total here given would doubtless be greatly added to. At the present moment, but three routes of access to the Yukon district are employed. (1). That of the portage by the Chilkoot Pass from the head of Lynn Canal to the navigable waters of the Lewes. (2). That from Peel River, near its confluence with the Mackenzie by portage to La Pierre's House on a branch of the Porcupine. (3). That from Behring Sea by the main river. The first is that almost exclusively used by the miners, the second is employed only by the Hudson Bay Company, and the last is that of the Alaskan traders.

There are now three small stern-wheel steamers on the lower river, which ascend each year as far as the trading post at Forty-mile Creek, used in bringing goods to trade with the Indians, and also for the supply of miners.

CLIMATE.

While the available information as to the climate of the northern portion of British Columbia and the Yukon district is necessarily as yet very imperfect, its general features are sufficiently obvious, repeating as they do those met with in the similarly circumstanced region to the south, with such modification as is produced by their higher latitude. The coast and coastward slopes of the Coast Ranges constitute a belt of excessive humidity and great precipitation, with somewhat equable temperatures, while the interior region to the eastward of these ranges is relatively dry, with a temperature of extremes. In the interior, however, the climate is largely influenced by the altitude of each particular district, and in consequence of the general lowering of the country beyond the 60th parallel (constituting the north line of British Columbia), it is certain that the climatic conditions are there much more favorable than in the Cassiar district. Such hardy crops as barley, rye, flax and turnips can be successfully cultivated in the Yukon district as far north as the former position of Fort Selkirk, or in other words about 1,000 miles north of Victoria. About 60,000 square miles, a large portion of which will in future be used for cultivating these crops exists.

NOTES.

Mining has so far been confined to the Cassiar district.

Gold and furs are at present the only valuable articles derived from the great Yukon region.

The winter climate is severe.

BLAIRTOWN.

HON. (?) JOHN ROBSON AND THE BLACK HOLE OF CALCUTTA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR—We read in history that the Nabob of Bengal shut up 146 British prisoners for a night in a den 20 by 14 from which only 23 came out alive in the morning.

In the junior room of the Wellington School, which is not quite 20 by 30, with sleeping accommodation for 58, the Hon. John Robson is responsible for the huddling together of 123 British scholars, at a time when the atmosphere is filled with smoke, the thermometer above 80, and when apples and plums are plentiful. Several pupils have already had to go home sick. One teacher is permitted to try to teach and train, under such circumstances, these 123 children, over 20 of whom do not understand a word of English. There can be no excuse for this state of affairs, as the people have in the past even gone the length of sending petitions for increased school accommodation. We read that the noble Clive avenged the cruelty of the den of Calcutta by defeating the Nabob. Will the noble citizens of Victoria avenge the cruelty of the den of North Wellington by defeating a government whose head is responsible for such cruelty?

J. N. MILS.

Wellington, Aug. 19, 1889.

THE PUBLIC LANDING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Will you kindly draw the attention of the city council to the disgraceful state of the public landing at the foot of Yates street. The stench and sight at low tide is something that could not be equalled on the coast; the box drain put down some time ago leading to low water mark has been disconnected, allowing the sewerage of cesspools and closets in the vicinity to run a distance of over 20 feet without being covered, and causing a stench that is most dangerous to health and impossible to describe. As regards the wooden pontoon and approach, some accidents have already occurred, nearly resulting in loss of life; but I suppose that is not sufficient, the authorities evidently waiting for a fatality to occur. Members of the street and sanitary committees have had their attention called to this matter on several occasions, but they seem too preoccupied with Park improvements to give a small part of their time to this disgraceful and dangerous trap.

HEALTH.

TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

Murderer Caught Near Moosejaw—Fatal Explosion—Large Mortgage.

Legitime's Forces Kill Each Other by Mistake—Accidents, Strikes, Etc.

[By Postal Telegraph.]

Toronto, Aug. 21.—The masters of different vessels, sailing from this port, allege that the government steamboat officials are granting certificates to inexperienced men, qualifying them to take charge of vessels as captains. Another grievance is that certificates are not graded. One certificate, they say, is good for all Canadian lakes, no matter what the experience of the holder may be on any of them, and he at once steps up to the level with experienced captains, so far as the chance of getting a good boat goes.

RAISING RECRUITS.

Toronto, Aug. 21.—Captain Howard, of the Quebec cavalry school, is here raising recruits among the young men of the city and has secured quite a number for the school.

A MURDERER CAUGHT.

Moose Jaw, N. W. T., Aug. 21.—On receipt of a telegram from inspector Jarvis of Wood Mountain last Tuesday night, Sergeant Colbrook with a posse started Monday morning on the Wood Mountain trail. When about twelve miles out they arrested a man, answering the description given, riding a horse. No resistance was made, but he said he was not the party wanted and gave the name of Geo. Sandford. The sheriff arrived from Moutana this morning and identified the prisoner as Albert Brazier, the murderer of Harry Brown in Custer County, Montana, on July 31st, 1889. He also identified the horse ridden by prisoner. The murder was committed on a ranch in Montana. Brown, the murdered man, was a cook on the ranch and had bought a bottle of bitters and was drinking it himself. Brazier wanted it divided among the men. Brown replied "that he had paid for it and would have as much of it as he liked." A quarrel ensued, Brown calling Brazier some hard names, whereupon Brazier drew a revolver and fired at Brown missing him. Brown then begged for his life, but Brazier fired again killing him instantly. The prisoner, who is nicknamed "Brick," is 5 feet 7 inches high and weighs 130 pounds. He is 21 or 22 years of age, has red hair and complexion and light moustache. The horse is branded "76" on the left shoulder and on the left thigh.

CHARGE DISMISSED.

Belleville, Aug. 21.—The charge of throwing carbolic acid, which was preferred against T. J. Desmond, Master of Toronto Lodge of True Blues, was dismissed by the police magistrate.

AN ENGLISH ADMIRAL AT QUEBEC.

Quebec, Aug. 21.—Admiral Watson landed from the war-ship Bellerophon at 8 p. m. yesterday under a salute of seventeen guns from the citadel. A detachment of "B" battery formed a guard of honor on Queen's wharf, where the gallant visitor landed. He drove to the citadel and with some of the officers dined with the Governor General last night. To-day the Governor-General will return the visit of the admiral, when both sides will fire a salute and the yards of the vessel will be manned. The admiral will likely have a field day with the blue jackets on the plains of Abraham during his stay in port.

SARAH ALTHEA YET.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—Judge Hoffman of the United States district court yesterday morning over-ruled the demurrer to the indictment found against Mrs. Terry by the United States grand jury and gave the defendant ten days to answer.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

Pittsburg, Aug. 21.—At 12:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon a boiler in Ganzwith's brewery, corner of Juniata and Magnolia streets, Allegheny City, exploded with terrible force. At the time Andrew Evans was making repairs on the boiler. He was blown 50 feet through a brick wall of the building on to the railroad track and instantly killed. A Swede named Johnson had both arms and legs broken and is probably fatally injured. Miss Lizzie Blasko, a domestic standing in an adjoining yard, had her back broken and otherwise terribly bruised by flying debris. The brewery building was almost totally wrecked and several employees more or less severely hurt.

AN ENORMOUS MORTGAGE.

New York, Aug. 21.—The directors of the Northern Pacific Railway Co. to-day unanimously approved of Henry Villard's scheme to place a consolidated mortgage of $160,000,000 on the entire system, and a special meeting of preferred stockholders has been called for October 17th to take formal action on the matter.

Chairman Harris of the board of directors said 20 million dollars worth of bonds will be used in providing additional equipment and terminals at Tacoma, Superior and elsewhere. The balance of the 140 million for bonds now on the Northern Pacific system and branch lines and other obligations.

STABBED TO THE HEART.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—Andreas Augard, a coast seaman, about 28 years of age, a native of Norway, was stabbed through the heart and instantly killed early this morning in front of a disreputable house. The murderer is unknown.

MUST HANG.

New York, Aug. 21.—Motion for a new trial for Giblin, one of the five condemned murderers who are to be hanged on Friday next, was denied by Judge Barrett.

TWO HUNDRED HAND SHAKES.

Loveland, Ohio, Aug. 21.—The President and party passed through this place at 9:25 a. m. About two hundred people assembled at the depot. The President came out on the rear platform and shook hands with all.

THE PRESIDENT'S MOVEMENTS.

Cincinnati, Aug. 21.—At 10:29 a. m. a salute was fired by battery "B," announcing the arrival of President Harrison, and two minutes later the train rushed into the depot amidst the shouts of the crowd. The President waived his hand and was escorted to a carriage in waiting.

MISS HUNTINGTON'S ENGAGEMENT.

New York, Aug. 21.—Among the passengers of the steamer Teutonic, which sails for Europe this morning, were C. P. Huntington and wife. To a reporter Mr. Huntington said he was not aware of his daughter's engagement to Prince Hatzfeldt.

RENAUD'S TRIAL.

New Orleans, Aug. 21.—At Purvis, Mississippi, the trial of Bud Renaud, who managed the Sullivan-Kilrain fight, is in progress to-day.

FIRE RECORD.

Pittsburg, Aug. 21.—A large gasoline still in A. D. Miller & Sons' oil refinery, corner of Preble avenue and Adams street, Allegheny City, exploded this morning. The entire refinery was destroyed by fire which followed. Perry Hawk, an employe, was sleeping beside the still and was fatally burned. Terence Miller and two other men are yet missing. Miller was night engineer. The engine room was enveloped in flames within a minute after the explosion, shutting off every possible escape. Five valuable horses were burned to death. The establishment contained four large stills, 9,000 barrels crude and 1,500 barrels refined oil. It was a brick building, 200x400 feet. The residence of D. Osborne was burned and other adjoining property damaged. Loss, $235,000; partially insured.

LIFE ON THE RAIL.

Elmira, N. Y., Aug. 21.—A Lehigh Valley freight train, east bound, while backing into a switch just west of Big Flats, about half past ten o'clock last night, an Erie west-bound freight crashed into the center of the train, badly smashing several cars of each train and derailing many others. Both tracks are blocked and all passenger trains are being sent around the wreck, over the D. L. & W. A wrecking train, with a full force, have left for the scene of accident. A loss of life is reported, but lacks confirmation. Reported at the Erie railway office at Buffalo that the engineer was killed and one passenger fatally injured.

'FRISCO NOTES.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—The cruiser Charleston steamed out of the Golden Gate about 2 o'clock this morning, presumably on her trial trip. The steamer passed easily over the bar, and proceeded southward at a pretty high rate of speed. She has the naval inspecting board on her, and is bound for Santa Barbara channel, where the trial trip will be made.

William T. Higgins, the well-known politician, died here this morning from kidney disease. He was about 55 years of age.

A MILL SUSPENDS.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 21.—Wanregan cotton goods mills, E. P. Taft, treasurer, to-day decided to suspend payments and allow notes to go to protest. The failure is connected with the disaster that overcame Lewis Bros., though it is claimed not to be directly resulting from that failure, Wanregan being creditors of Lewis Bros., only for $10,000, but the mills were reported to be in with Manville and Slater to the extent of a million and the creditors have been coming down on them. No statement can be got yet but liabilities are heavy.

MRS. MAYBRICK'S CASE.

London, Aug. 21.—Henry Matthews, home secretary, is holding a conference with Mr. Addison, government attorney for Liverpool district, who conducted the prosecution of Mrs. Maybrick.

ENORMOUS STRIKE.

London, Aug. 21.—The strike of employees of the London dockyards is spreading rapidly. Men employed at commercial docks, one thousand in number, joined the strikers this morning. Thirty thousand strikers marched in a procession to-day. Socialists are endeavoring to lead the movement, and a number of red flags were displayed in the parade. The paraders are orderly and the city is quiet.

A TOKEN.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The mayors and other prominent officials have organized a subscription to present M. Carnot with a handsome souvenir.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

Port au Prince, Aug. 21.—Two squads of Legitimas troops going on their nightly rounds ran into each other in the dark and blazed away at each other thinking they had met an enemy. Seventeen were killed and many wounded.

BANKRUPT.

Dedham, Mass., Aug. 21.—To-day lawyer Dickinson filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy on behalf of Edward Stesse and Amesa Clark, of the firm of Brown, Steese & Clark, wool dealers, in the insolvency courts here. Counsel for G. P. Brown withdraws all objections to his client entering into insolvency, and he was declared insolvent. Judge White issued a warrant for the seizure of the property of the parties named.

SOCIALISTS ABROAD.

Vienna, Aug. 21.—Government police are making arrests in every direction of socialists and have obtained definite information of a great socialist conspiracy with ramifications all over the empire. Two Russian students, a French teacher and two of his sisters, were arrested here yesterday and other arrests will follow shortly.

FUNDS FOR A TUNNEL.

London, Aug. 21.—A German company has been formed with a capital of thirty million francs to complete the Simpton tunnel. Italy will furnish fifteen million francs to hold one end of the tunnel.

THE READY PISTOL.

Pittsburg, Aug. 21.—At 2:15 o'clock this afternoon a well-known contractor, John G. Natcher, was shot twice by a painter named William E. Lee. The shooting occurred in Natcher's office.

IRISH M. P.'S FREE.

Dublin, Aug. 21.—Jno. O'Connor and A. J. Condon, members of parliament for Tipperary, to-day were released from prison. They will at once resume their seats in the House of Commons.

REPRIEVED.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Governor Hill has respited Giblin, the murderer for sixty days. No decision has been given yet in the New Orleans case.

AS TO IRISH GAOLS.

London, Aug. 21.—Mr. Parnell will go to Scotland during the recess of Parliament, instead of to the continent, as he first intended. Mr. Kenay, member for Tyrone, has given notice of a question in the House as to the condition of the Derry gaol where Mr. Conybeare contracted skin disease, and which he will show is in a condition dangerous to the health of both prisoners and officials.

Killed on the Rail.

The World gives the following particulars of the accident on the railway track: After passing the curve near the limekiln, the form of a man was observed on the track by the engineer, but too late to stop the train. The foreman of the C. P. R. gang, however, after the train had gone on, gathered up the remains at the side of the track and immediately notified the police of the occurrence. Sergeant McLaren at once took an express wagon and brought back the remains, which were taken to the morgue. The head was found to be cut entirely open, whilst both legs were cut off at the knees and in addition one arm was torn off. The condition of the remains and the terrible pool of blood on the ground where the accident happened, show conclusively that the man must have been lying across the rails when the train came up to him, and was either too deaf to hear the engine, or possibly too drunk. On examination of the clothes at the morgue a piece of paper bearing the name of Albert McQuarry was found. Apparently he was a man of about 40. Coroner McGuigan, who is in New Westminster, was notified by telephone.

Gratifying to All.

Coal at Vancouver.

Prof. Dawson, of the geological survey was asked by a Vancouver reporter as to the prospects of good bituminous coal being found there, but he was reticent. He had seen the gentleman who is at present in charge of the work of boring for coal on English Bay, but was not in a position to divulge what information as to results had been imparted to him. He thought the time was hardly ripe yet to say anything, and considered it would be hardly right on his part to give away [illegible] particulars had been furnished him, and no reason to doubt the fact as to being good "workable" coal underlying the whole townsite; but as to the depths of the veins and the best points of boring, tests and experiments alone could decide. He considered it was decidedly worth while to bore for coal, and had no doubt that proper tests would be attended with good results.

THE GOVERNMENT POLICY.

The politicians and business men of the Pacific coast states are devoting a good deal of their valuable time to the question of irrigation, and we may interject right here that had Mr. DAVIS made some such question as this his platform, not alone would the recent campaign have been conducted with less acrimony, but confidence in the government in a large measure would have been restored. It matters not though Mr. DAVIS is elected by an overwhelming majority the fact remains just the same that public confidence in the government is shaken. The issues which were raised, gave Mr. BEAVEN his chance, and he improved it with sledge hammer blows. Had other issues been raised, had Mr. DAVIS and the cabinet been far sighted enough to perceive that more than railways were required to develop British Columbia, the government platform might have been so constructed as to almost have compelled the opposition to endorse it. We venture to say that had Mr. DAVIS let the railway question alone, though he had been defeated, the government would have suffered no loss of prestige, whereas, though he be elected his office hangs by an uncertain tenure; the government in other words being badly shaken from the exposures incident to the campaign. There is one thing as certain as day follows night, the future politician of this province will have to study something else than the fattening of railway syndicates, and the building up of a Plutocracy. Steps have got to be taken looking to the reclamation of our waste land. Such of necessity is a government measure, and the government which fails to comprehend as much is doomed to extinction.

MORE SEIZURES.

The Behring Sea question has come to be a very disagreeable "chestnut" and so we need not discuss the recent seizures as reported by the captain of the American schooner Allie L. Algar. We are powerless to do anything, and for imperial reasons Great Britain seems disinclined to push the question to a settlement. The greater percentage of American newspapers however, repudiate the attitude of their own government. With such powerful allies as these, more powerful in our opinion to bring about a speedy settlement of the matter than the roar of cannon, British Columbia may reckon on the sealing question being settled this year. The HARRISON administration claims to be carrying out an act of congress. It ought to be no part of the HARRISON administration to allow differences to remain unsettled between Canada and the United States to keep up bad feeling among young widow, fondly look for the first congress of congress which the unique Sea so soon as congress meets. Although undoubtedly some understanding will be brought about between England and the United States by which the seals will be protected from indiscriminate slaughter.

AGNOSTIC VS. GNOSTIC.

Christian believers are apt to think that there is a little too much publicity given to "free thought" nowadays, and that the result cannot be otherwise than pernicious. The effect, however, is not nearly so bad as supposed. Those who break a lance against Christianity are subject to reprisals, and, on the whole, the general aspects of the question remain unchanged. Of the latter day contributions to "profane literature," Professor HUXLEY in the guise of an "Agnostic" has attempted to upset orthodox Christianity. Agnosticism, according to the professor, is a negative creed, teaching that it is wrong for a man to say that he is certain of the truth of a proposition unless he has logical proof of it. All certainty, according to agnostic belief, enters the human mind through the logical faculty. Dr. LYMAN ABBOTT, in the North American Review, in an article under the caption of "A Word With Professor HUXLEY," while admitting the general truth of this proposition, brings forward the doctrine other doors than the logical faculty of gnosticism, which teaches there are [illegible] but was in the dainty enters the human [illegible] look as if there are absolute convictions which are certified by evidence which the logical faculty is incompetent to certify. "The heart hath reasons of its own which the reason knows nothing of. It believes that the soul is furnished with a sixth sense, sometimes called imagination, sometimes called insight, which gives direct and immediate cognizance of invisible and spiritual truths, that neither the senses nor the logical faculty can perceive." To fortify this position the writer quotes from MARK TWAIN'S "Tramp abroad," considering it good authority, albeit, as when TWAIN wrote he was unconscious whether he was a gnostic or an agnostic."

"In conversation with an artist in Venice, I asked: What is it that people see in the Old Masters? I have been in the Doge's Palace, and, I saw several acres of very bad drawing, very bad perspective, and very incorrect proportions. * * * The artist said: Yes, the Old Masters often drew badly; they did not care much for truth and exactness in minor details. But after all, in spite of bad drawing, bad proportion, bad perspective, and a choice of subjects which no longer appeal to people as strongly as they did three hundred years ago, there is a something about these pictures which is divine—a something which is above the art of any epoch since—a something which would be the despair of artists, but that they do not hope or expect to attain it, and therefore do not worry about it. This is what he said, and he said what he believed; and not only believed, but felt. Reasoning—especially reasoning without technical knowledge—must be put aside in cases of this kind. It cannot assist the inquirer. It will lead him in the most logical progression to what in the eyes of artists would be a most illogical conclusion. Thus: Bad drawing, bad proportion, bad perspective, indifference to truthful detail, color which gets its merit from time—these things constitute the Old Master; conclusion, the Old Master was a bad painter, the Old Master was not an Old Master at all, but an Old Apprentice. Your friend the artist will grant your premises, but deny your conclusions; he will maintain that, notwithstanding this formidable list of confessed defects, there is still a something that is divine and unapproachable about the Old Masters, and that there is no arguing the fact away by any system of reasoning whatever.

"I can believe that. There are women who have an indefinable charm in their faces which makes them beautiful to their intimates; but a cold stranger who tried to reason the matter out and find this beauty would fail. He would say of one of these women, 'This chin is too short, this nose is too long, this forehead is too high, this hair is too red, this complexion is too pallid; the perspective of the entire composition is incorrect; conclusion, the woman is not beautiful.' But her nearest friend might say, and say truly, your premises are right, your logic faultless, but your conclusion is wrong nevertheless; she is an Old Master,—she is beautiful, but only to such as know her; it is a beauty which cannot be formulated, but it is there just the same."

The doctrine of agnosticism as enunciated in the foregoing appears reasonable enough. It seems to establish beyond cavil the existence of a sixth sense. Dr. Abbot concludes that

We do not accept God because he is logically presented to us as the most convenient hypothesis to account for the creation. A divine spirit looks out from nature and from life into our own souls, as the human spirit from the eyes of the wife and the mother. We are sorry for the Agnostic who does not see with our eyes. But we decline to accept the limitations which are of his own fashioning, or to deny that we know, what we know, because he has closed in his own soul the windows which we have left open, and shut out from himself the vision which lies open and patent and visible and certain before us.

CANADIAN PACIFIC DIVIDEND PROSPECTS.

The 3 per cent. per annum annuity which was bought of the Canadian government in 1884 for the shareholders of this company has still four years to run, after allowing for the payment to be made this month, and it is evident that in this, the sixth year of the annuity period, the power of the company to earn dividends on the ordinary basis is to be amply demonstrated. Up to the end of 1887, says the Canadian Gazette, all net earnings beyond what was required for interest was spent on the road. It was then decided that all subsequent surplus should be divided amongst the shareholders. The year 1888 showed a surplus of $926,000 over the fixed charges of that year, and as it is known that the fixed charges for 1889 will be about $3,800,000, which was the amount of the net revenue for 1888, it follows that all growth of net revenue in 1889 over that of 1888 is available for dividend. During the past few days the company's return of net revenue to June 30th of this year has been published. It shows an increase in the net of $863,000, and, including the balance brought forward from 1888, $1,189,000 was available for dividend purposes to that date. Whatever may be the increase in the second half of the year—and it is sure to be considerable—will be in addition to this $1,189,000, and as it only takes $1,300,000 to pay 2 per cent., the question to be decided will not be whether or not some dividend shall be paid, but whether the dividend shall be 1 per cent. or 2 per cent.

ENGLAND'S NAVY.

The mobilization at Portsmouth commenced badly, for the Medea and the Galatea broke down, and the Howe, Camperdown and Melpomene were not ready. The Collingwood lost an anchor, and the defects of the belted-cruiser Aurora are tardily discovered to be so serious that it will not be safe to send her to sea. The Neptune, on leaving Holyhead, stuck on a mud bank, and there remained until the tide floated her; while the Rodney and the Elk both went crashing into lightships, and the latter vessel has sustained grave damages. Magazine and newspaper sea admirals hitherto have laid great stress on the character of the sea fighting to come, but if we may judge of the ease with which the iron monsters of Her Majesty's fleet break down, and otherwise disable themselves before they are a mile from their anchorages, as was the case in the last naval review, it is perfectly plain that they are good only for coast defence, and must be close to a dock yard at that. Sea fighting therefore will be carried on much in the same fashion as of yore. The sides of the light armored ships will afford no more protection against the mis iles of the modern breech-loading cannon than the oaken sides of the three deckers against the long "thirty-two" of half a century ago. Swift, light armored cruisers are the true defenders of England's maritime supremacy.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—James Shannon, Lessdale, writes: "For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used."

—M. A. St. Mars, St. Boniface, Man., writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here, and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day."

—Mr. Joab Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and dyspepsia; sour stomach and lame back; in fact I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

—That "tocsin of the soul, the dinner bell," as Byron calls it, suggests no pleasing reflection to the dyspeptic, bilious sufferer. He partakes, of course, but the subsequent torment is egregiously out of proportion to the quantity of food he eats, which lies undigested, a weight like lead in his unhappy stomach. There is a remedy, however, and its name is Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. No case is entirely hopeless.

—One trial of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will convince you that it has no equal as a worm medicine. Buy a bottle, and see it it does not please you.

—Hard and soft corns cannot withstand Holloway's Corn Cure; it is effectual every time. Get a bottle at once and be happy.

A PARALLEL CASE.

A Trial in the South Almost Identical to the Maybrick Crime.

(Written for the TIMES.)

Very few occurrences of the present decade have attracted so much attention as the recent trial and conviction of Mrs. Florence Maybrick, charged with causing the death of her husband by poisoning. Even the atrocities of "Jack the Ripper" have suffered an eclipse. This can in a measure be accounted for by the fact that the accused is a woman, and a handsome one, too. It requires a stretch of imagination with most people to believe that a woman can be guilty of murder, but when she is charged with causing the death of a husband by the subtle means alleged in the Maybrick case it almost reaches the realms of absolute improbability and impossibility. Dr. Griggs, of New York, who Mrs. Maybrick testified had prescribed the face wash which she used, describes her as being a remarkably beautiful young woman ten years ago, and if late accounts can be relied upon she retains all the traces of her early fascinating loveliness.

A peculiar case, resembling in many respects the now celebrated Maybrick tragedy, came under my own personal observation a few years ago. At that time I was connected with a newspaper in the Southern States, and the scene of the supposed murder being but a short distance from me, I became acquainted with and very naturally very much interested in the circumstances surrounding it. Like Mrs. Maybrick, the accused was a handsome woman, and also like that unfortunate person, she had married a man so much older than herself as to preclude the possibility of the union being one of altogether disinterested attachment.

At No. 222 Canal street, New Orleans, in the year 1885, lived a Mrs. Wallace and her only daughter, Minnie. Mrs. Wallace had some time before this been divorced from her husband, an obscure lawyer. Minnie was the only fruit of a union which covered a period of less than a dozen years. The house was a neat two-story dwelling, much the same as other buildings to be found in the Crescent City. The place was used as a high-class boarding and lodging house. During the year 1885, the Exposition was being held in that city, and among those who were attracted to it was a James Walkup, Mayor of Emporia, Kansas. He lodged during his short stay in the house of Mrs. Wallace. He was a person considerably on the shady side of fifty, and a widower with family. But notwithstanding his advanced age the springly carriage and engaging manners of Minnie Wallace, who was only seventeen years of age, found much favor in his eyes. In short, with the consent and encouragement of the mother he offered her his hand in marriage and was accepted. The only story of uniting winter and spring was again enacted, although the young lady was candid enough to confess to her husband that a home for herself was the greatest consideration she had in the matter.

In due time the young woman was installed in the house of her husband in the bustling little city of Emporia. She was all attention to the man she had sacredly vowed to "love, honor and obey," and everything might have gone along smoothly enough had it not had been for the interference of the husband's relations. One daughter in particular by a former wife opposed her stepmother on every possible occasion. As might be expected, this state of affairs had the effect of repressing the cordial and affectionate intercourse which should exist between man and wife, and life for Minnie Wallace Walkup soon became irksome indeed. In the course of a couple of weeks after the marriage Mr. Walkup took suddenly ill, and despite the fact that several of the most skillful physicians were called in to make diagnosis of the case, the cause of his illness was an impenetrable mystery. The young wife was all attention to her sick husband. She remained by his bed side and followed the "doctor's orders" with commendable assiduity. But neither the efforts of the physicians nor the unceasing attentions of his wife could prevail against the grim monster, death, and one beautiful day in the autumn of 1885, James Walkup was gathered to his fathers, and the city of Emporia was left without a mayor and the "sweet young girl from New Orleans" was transformed into a widow.

But people will talk in Kansas just the same as they do anywhere else. It was first whispered and afterwards shouted from the housetops that there was something "irregular" about the death of Mayor Walkup. At the suggestion of his daughter, the body was exhumed, and a chemical analysis of the contents of the stomach was made. This disclosed the fact that arsenic had been administered to him in small quantities, but sufficient to cause death. A druggist of Emporia also volunteered the information that he had sold young Mrs. Walkup small quantities of arsenic to poison the rats. These facts constituted a chain of circumstantial evidence that was deemed sufficiently strong to justify the suspicion that the deceased had been poisoned by his young wife. She was accordingly arrested, charged with the wilful murder of her husband. In jail she was permitted to live with the jailer's family, and was treated more as a distinguished guest than a person accused of murder.

The day for the trial at last came about. It was in the early part of November. The friends of the young widow, and she had many, rallied to her assistance, and secured for her the best counsel available. The defence was unique in its way, and, as in the case of Mrs. Maybrick, depended largely on expert testimony. Several important facts were disclosed, the principal one of which was that the deceased had suffered from a painful private disease, the excruciating tortures of which would be alleviated by the use of small quantities of arsenic. It was also demonstrated that it was a common practice among young ladies to use arsenic for beautifying the complexion, and that it was for this purpose that Mrs. Walkup made the purchases of the drug. But there was another circumstance which, fortunately for the prisoner, much prominence was not given to by the prosecution. It was that the accused had a young lover in New Orleans, who would be benefitted very greatly by the death of Mr. Walkup. I shall never forget the impressiveness of the scene, after the evidence was all in, and the addresses of the judge and lawyers to the jury had been concluded, as the twelve good men in whose hands reposed the prisoner's fate, filed slowly out of the court room, to consider their verdict. Strange to say the prisoner herself appeared to be far less concerned than any one of the spectators. She was removed to the jailer's private parlor, and while the jury were worrying their heads over the testimony of the experts, and debating the case in all its bearings, she amused herself and one of the jailer's children by singing "Nancy Lee," and playing her own accompaniment on the piano.

After a short space of time it was announced that a verdict had been arrived at, and the jury returned to the court room, the silence impressive, but not ominous. After the usual questions, the foreman of the jury handed in the verdict, which was that Mrs. Walkup was "not guilty" of causing the death of her husband. A cheer rent the air at this announcement, but any attempt at further demonstrations was quickly suppressed by the judge.

Minnie Wallace Walkup returned to her home in New Orleans. The last time I met her was in the spring of 1886. She did not look as if her premature widowhood bore heavily upon her, on the contrary she appeared supremely happy. Although she was entitled to a large share of her deceased husband's property, I was informed that she refused it most emphatically. THE BOHEMIAN.

To do all or any of the above things in any part of the world, and either alone or in partnership or conjunction with any person or other association, and either as principals or agents, and to contract for the carrying out of any operation connected with the Company's business by any person or other association.

25. To carry out the objects comprised in each paragraph of this clause in as full and ample a manner, and construed in as wide a sense as they would be construed if each paragraph of this clause defined the objects of a separate, distinct and independent company, and so that such objects shall not, except where otherwise expressed in such paragraph, be restricted by reference to the objects indicated in any other paragraph.

26. To do all such other things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects, or any of them, or which the Company shall consider incidental or conclusive to the attainment of the above objects, or any of them, and so that the word "company" in this memorandum shall be deemed to include any partnership or other body of persons, whether corporate or incorporate, and wherever domiciled.

The amount of capital stock of the said Company is £250,000, divided into 25,000 share of £10 each.

The place of business of the said Company is located at the City of Victoria, in the Province of British Columbia.

In testimony whereof I have hereto set my hand and affixed my seal of office this 10th day of July, 1889, at the City of Victoria, in the Province of British Columbia.

PERSONAL.

Items Telling of Movements of Well Known Persons.

J. M. Daval, of Vancouver, came over last night to vote for Dr. Milne.

A. B. Gray returned to the city last night from the mainland.

Capt. Wm. Power, of Moodyville, is in the city.

Robert Grant, of Vancouver, brother of Mayor Grant, is at the Oriental.

J. Runa, of Tacoma, an old resident of Victoria, is in the city.

Henry Lawson, editor of the Colonist, met Mrs. and Miss Lawson, who had just arrived from Prince Edward Island, at Tacoma, and returned to Victoria last evening.

W. H. Owen and John Gilmore, of Nicola, are at the Oriental. They will attend at the Supreme Court to-day to be present at a long pending lawsuit.

Miss Emma Shaw, of Providence, R. I., the well known correspondent of the Boston Transcript, is at the Driard. She is engaged in collecting the notes of her late trip to Alaska, which is the third she has made.

The White Mountain Republic, of Littleton, Vt., says: "Miss Seabrook, of Philadelphia, who with her mother has rooms at Ira Merrill's, is making many sketches of Warren scenery." The ladies are the wife and daughter of Mr. R. Seabrook of Victoria. They are residing in Philadelphia while Miss Seabrook is taking a course of study in art, and at the present time are spending a few weeks in the White Mountains of Vermont.

J. B. Henderson and R. A. Anderson, of Vancouver are in the city.

Capt. Urquhart is in the city to-day. He piloted the Walla Walla from Vancouver to Port Townsend, and came over on the steamer last night.

J. W. Griffiths of Port Townsend came over on the Olympian last night.

H. L. Tibbals, Jr., of Port Townsend, arrived last night.

Mr. Geo. Frye, of the customs service, is confined to his home with illness.

Marine.

Ships Oriole and Matilda arrived at Vancouver on Monday, the former to load coal at Port Moody, the other to load lumber at Hastings saw mill.

The steamer Danube also arrived at Vancouver from Portland with six hundred tons of flour for transhipment to China per s.s. Port Augusta, which sails from Vancouver on Friday afternoon.

The ss. Walla Walla took on board about one thousand tons of freight at Vancouver for 'Frisco and sailed for the Sound on Tuesday.

The Danube will arrive in Victoria this Wednesday evening, bringing the China freight for this port brought over by the Port Augusta. She will then proceed to Portland with about four hundred tons brought over by the same steamer.

The steamship Michigan is due from Portland.

Steamer Maude arrived this morning from Departure Bay with a full load of coal for the C. P. N. Co.

Ship Titania commenced loading canned salmon this morning for London. The steamer Princess Louise went alongside and discharged the balance of her cargo.

The Princess Louise will leave for Skidegate, Masset and Naas river and all way ports to-morrow (Thursday) at 8 p.m.

Steamer R. P. Rithet took a quantity of money supplies from the outer wharf this morning.

BURGOYNE BAY.

Harvesting is quite through and all have reason to be satisfied. Weather pleasant, except just enough rain last night to lay the dust.

Our road overseer is very much improving the roads, and our pleasures will be heightened when winter comes.

The Beaver Point school is in charge of Miss F. C. Fraser and we congratulate the district on their choice.

Mrs. Furness and family and Mr. W. M. Williams are home after a week's visit to the city.

Mr. S. Maxwell has brought with him a first class thrashing machine, a credit to the island and which it will certainly appreciate.

It is pleasant to note that Mr. E. Hankins still improves and it is hoped in the near future he shall be round again. Cos.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Election Wagers.

Betting on to-day's election was fairly brisk. Last night a number of wagers were made that Theo. Davie would have a majority of 150 votes, the "plunger" being a well-known captain. His money was covered by several with a tendency to jump at what they consider "soft snaps."

Customs Inspection.

Capt. Young, District Inspector of Customs, arrived from Nanaimo yesterday, accompanied by Inspector Clute, of Westminster. The warehouses and sufferance sheds were inspected last night, and both gentlemen went over to Vancouver to-day. Capt. Young will return to Victoria about the end of this week, and afterwards will visit Osoyoos, Kootenay and other outposts in the province.

Naval Effects Sold.

The sale of war office stores and other condemned effects at the naval yard, Esquimalt, this morning attracted a fair attendance. Things went for nearly nothing, there being apparently no demand for the articles. A Merryweather & Son hand fire engine was knocked down to Joe Phoenix, the junk dealer, for the ridiculous low figure of $9. Mr. Joshua Davies conducted the sale with his usual well known ability.

The Nanaimo Courier.

Mr. J. J. Shunsbarger, editor and publisher of the Nanaimo Courier, has severed his connection with that paper, and is at present in Victoria. The Courier has been experiencing the usual difficulties incident to a new journal, and it is feared that it will be unable to surmount the many obstacles in the path of success. No copy of the paper reached Victoria to-day, and it is reported that it has ceased publication.

Non-Resident Voters.

Last night's steamers from Vancouver and the Sound brought a number of voters to the city, a majority having been sent for by Mr. Davie. A few came from as far as Harrison Hot Springs, and had a jolly time at Vancouver before embarking. The supporters of Dr. Milne, who came voluntarily from Vancouver, New Westminster and Nanaimo, to deposit their ballots in his favor, evinced an enthusiasm and patriotism that is a presage of a sweeping victory at the general election.

Cowichan Lake.

Capt. Wardroper is about to build a house with a view to permanently residing here.

Poor Leo!

The men of C Battery are extremely sorry at the death of Lt. Ogilvie's St. Bernard dog Leo, which was terribly mutilated a few days ago by a train on the E. & N. railway passing over the animal's legs, necessitating the destroying of the suffering brute. Leo was well-known around town as a very large, light brown dog, docile and sagacious. The skin has been preserved by Lt. Ogilvie as a memento of a faithful dog who once saved a soldier's life in the Northwest. Luckily there are several of Leo's offspring left in the city, which will be tenderly cared for.

For the North.

The steamer Princess Louise sails tomorrow evening for the north, on the second excursion trip of the season, with a fair passenger list and freight. Among those making the trip are Commissioner Wrigley, of Winnipeg; Assistant Commissioner Smith, of the H. B. Co. of this city; Dr. Butler and J. R. Wilson.

The steamer Boscowitz sails for the north at 8 o'clock this evening with a good freight list. There are several passengers going north, among whom is Mr. Pidcock, Indian agent at Alert Bay.

From San Francisco.

The City of Puebla, Capt. Debney, arrived from San Francisco at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 55 hours on the trip up, which is fast time considering the rough weather encountered. The following is the full list of cabin passengers for this port: Hon. T. B. Humphreys, John Rosenfeld, C. N. Page, J. P. McDonald, J. P. Summers, E. L. Clarke and wife, J. W. Bowen, J. A. Trift, W. B. Cuthbert, Miss Abbie Folsom, and 12 in the steerage. Freight for this port aggregated 180 tons, and in transit to the east via the C.P.R., 278 tons.

A Kindly Act.

Just as the Islander was leaving for Victoria on Sunday, the World says, a poverty-stricken woman was brought to Capt. Radlie, and he was asked if she, with her sister and child, could proceed to Victoria without the necessary payment of their fare. The party had just arrived from England, and had come to an end of their funds. The kind hearted captain took the responsibility of allowing them to go. On being asked by a World reporter if such cases were of frequent occurrence, Capt. Radlin answered in the negative, stating that the majority of those coming through seemed to be well able to pay their way to their several destinations.

A Rare Performance.

It must not be forgotten that at the Victoria theatre this evening and to-morrow evening a rare treat is in store for those who appreciate the drama. In "One of the Bravest" a thrilling story is told. It is needless to explain who Mr. McCarthy is, as his name has now become a household word from ocean to ocean. He is the only true exponent of the Metropolitan fireman, having received his training from Captain McAdam, instructor of the Life Saving Corps of the N. Y. F. D. Mr. McCarthy is celebrated for giving the most scientific and wonderful exhibition of the uses of life saving appliances in the world, and his work is so acknowledged by the heads of all the principal fire departments. In his characterization of the Chinaman, Mr. McCarthy stands without a rival, having studied their way from nature, and speaks their language as fluently as his own.

The Last Meeting.

The meeting at Philharmonic Hall was very largely attended. Excellent speeches were made by Dr. Milne and Messrs. Beaven, Grant and West, after which Mr. Theo. Davie was given an opportunity to reply. Towards the close there was considerable disorder, caused by the friends of Mr. Davie, who insisted that that gentleman should take the platform before the regular speakers had concluded. Messrs. Grant and West cut their remarks short in order that Mr. Davie might have a chance to speak, and when he appeared on the platform he was given a fair hearing. As the election will be over before the issue of the TIMES is in the hands of its readers, there is no occasion for publishing a report of the speeches, more especially as during the past two weeks our columns have been largely devoted to election matters. Dr. Milne spoke in a clear and convincing manner, proving that he has all the natural abilities to fit him for the duties of a parliamentarian. Mr. Beaven was argumentative, concise and explicit, carrying conviction to every unprejudiced mind. Mayor Grant was forcible and fair, and Mr. West eloquent and earnest. Whatever the issue of the contest, it must have been obvious to the dispassionate spectator that the opposition cause was more ably presented than that of the government, and that so sure as effect follows cause the complete overturow of the government is only a matter of a few months.

AN ODDFELLOWS' CASE.

Messrs. Craft and Norris Sue Oddfellows Union for $1,000.

Craft and Norris vs. Oddfellows' Union.—Before the Chief Justice Sir M. B. Begbie and a special jury.—This was an action brought by plaintiffs to recover $1,000 damages for loss of rents and profits for six weeks from the building recently erected by them on the corner of Douglas and Johnson streets. The Oddfellows leased this corner to plaintiffs from the first of August last, and owing to one of the old tenants retaining possession of a part of the land leased, until 8th September, plaintiffs were unable to commence the construction of the whole of their building on August first, but at that time they had commenced construction on two-thirds of the property. Defendants had offered $300 in settlement.

On the case being called, defendant's moved to amend their defence by stating that the plaintiffs were members (Craft being president) of the Board of Union during the negotiations for the said lease and that through their representations the lease was granted at an earlier date then it would otherwise have been. Leave to amend was given, and the trial was adjourned sine die all costs being reserved.

Messrs. W. J. Taylor and E.V. Bodwell for plaintiffs; C. E. Pooley and T. Fell for defendants.

BANQUET TO MR. DEWDNEY.

He Accepts the Citizens' Invitation to a Public Banquet.

A meeting to consider plans for a banquet to be tendered the Hon. Edgar Dewdney, Minister of the Interior, while in the city, was held at the City Hall yesterday afternoon. There were present Mayor Grant, D. W. Higgins, M. P. P.; F. S. Barnard, M. P.; Postmaster Shakespeare, S. Perry Mills, A. L. Belyea, Thos. Shotbolt, Esq., J. S. Yates, Alds. Coughlan, Harrison and Kelly. Mr. Yates was appointed secretary.

On motion of Mr. Barnard it was resolved that all those present, together with E. C. Baker, M. P., and E. G. Prior, M. P., be appointed an executive committee for the purpose of ascertaining what arrangements can be made in the event of the Hon. Mr. Dewdney's accepting the citizens' invitation to be banqueted, and to report the same at a meeting of the general committee to be called at a future date.

On motion of Ald. Coughlan, the Mayor and Messrs. Barnard, Higgins and Mills were appointed a committee to ascertain where the banquet could be held. Carried.

On motion of Mr. Higgins the meeting then adjourned, subject to the call of the chairman.

Mayor Grant has received the following telegram: Portage la Prairie, Aug. 20.—Please convey my thanks to the citizens of Victoria for their kind offer of a banquet. I shall have too much pleasure in accepting and will communicate with you when possible, giving you date of my arrival in Victoria. E. Dewdney.

THE CONTEST.

A Lively Election and Great Interest Shown in the Fight.

The result of the contest to-day between Dr. Milne and Mr. Theodore Davie will not be known before we go to press, as it will take several hours to count the ballots after the poll closes at 4 o'clock. During the day great interest was taken in the contest, and the friends of Mr. Davie were unusually active in bringing voters to the poll. It was expected that a large vote—probably between 1,000 and 1,200—would be polled, and although the voters of Mr. Davie were the louder and more numerous, and the chances were in his favor, the friends of Dr. Milne were in the best of spirits throughout the day. Betting on 100 and 150 majority for Mr. Davie was freely indulged in in the morning, but towards midday the confidence of his backers visibly weakened and they reduced the margin to 50 and in many cases declined to give odds. A noticeable want of confidence, or rather of doubt as to the result, on the part of many prominent citizens made the struggle interesting and exciting. Certain influences, it was said, were at work on our side, and certain other equally as powerful on the other. Mr. Davie's carriage conveyed to the poll, voters who, it was claimed would mark their ballots for Dr. Milne, and vice versa. This uncertainty increased the endeavors of Mr. Davie's supporters, who swarmed about the committee room and the door of the polling booth like bees in May time. The active workers in the cause of Dr. Milne were few, but they exerted themselves to the utmost. Scores of people visited the doctor's headquarters during the day and expressed their regret that although qualified they were not on the list, promising to be on hand at the general election next summer as voters. Let the result be what it may, this election has demonstrated one thing, and that is that the opposition must organize. Attention must be given to the voters' list, so that every citizen who has a right to exercise the franchise may be in a position to do so when the time comes again in a few months hence.

TWO MORE SEIZURES.

The Pathfinder and Ollie I. Algar Taken by the Rush.

Captain Algar, of the American sealing schooner Ollie I. Algar, arrived from Port Townsend last evening, and brought information that two more schooners had been seized in Behring Sea by the U. S. cutter Rush. The captain, who was at once interviewed by a reporter of THE TIMES, said: "The Ollie I. Algar was in Behring Sea on the 30th July, when the Rush came in sight. At the time we were fifty miles west of St. Paul. A boat from the Rush put off and Lieut. Tuttle came on board. He demanded the Algar's papers, which I handed to him, and having read them he searched the schooner. He didn't find anything, however. I said to him, "Well, what luck have you had on the sea?" He said: "On the 11th July we captured the Black Diamond and despatched her to Sitka, with a man aboard to take charge of her. On the 23rd of July we sighted the schooner Minnie. Her owner, Captain Jacobson, was aboard at the time, and had 843 seal skins. We took possession of her and despatched her to Sitka also. Yesterday (the 29th July) we bore down on the Pathfinder, and found 850 seal skins aboard of her. We put another man aboard her and ordered her off to Sitka as well. Last week we boarded both the Ariel and Theresa. They had some skins aboard but we let them go as the stuff had been too long caught, ordering them out of the sea. After telling me this the lieutenant told me I had better get out of the sea at once, and he was then pulled aboard his steamer which headed away for the east. We then set sail for the south and arrived yesterday at Neah Bay. I left my schooner there and came up from Cape Flattery to Port Townsend. I then caught the Olympian and have just reached Victoria. My schooner will I expect, be on the road to Seattle now. I will leave here on the Olympian to-morrow to rejoin her. I've been already a sufferer on a former occasion through a seizure of one of my vessels in Behring's sea in 1887. She had 1600 skins aboard, and she was taken to Sitka, where they were condemned by the judge there. I appealed to the supreme court and the case is still pending."

The Pathfinder and Minnie are both owned in Victoria, the former by Carne & Munsie, while Capt. Jacobsen, the owner of the Minnie, was in command at the time of seizure. It is probable that both vessels would sail for Victoria, in which case they should arrive at any moment.

Grass Fires.

During the past twenty-four hours the telephone alarms were received at the central fire hall. At 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon a large fire burned about twenty acres of grass in a field near the Jewish cemetery, on the Cedar Hill road. This morning at 10 o'clock the fire department received another call for a grass fire at the corner of Pembroke and Quadra streets. A house occupied by Mr. Doscher, was endangered by this morning's fire. The men from the engine house have been called out on three occasions to suppress fires in the same locality and they are of Mr. Doscher's opinion, that the police should make an example of the young rascals causing so much trouble and expense. Since the dry season began the firemen have been called out to fifteen grass fires.
